PATHWAYS

From the CEO

Welcome to our inaugural edition of the PathWAYS newsletter! Our goat-friends under the PathWAYS sign seem to be catching on to the new communication tools and technologies we have recently launched. We are excited about our web site and the first edition of our newsletter which provide new ways for us to communicate and share information with you.

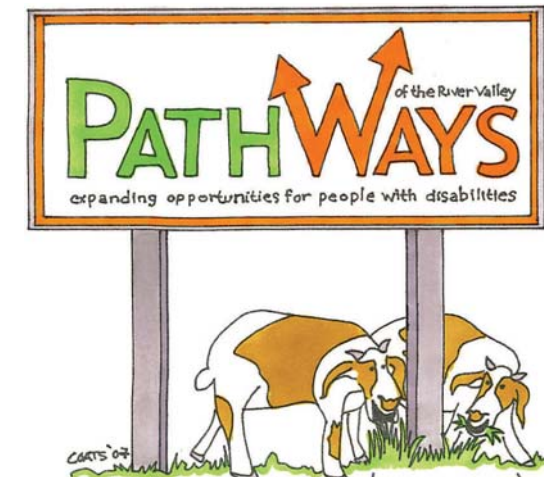

We envision this newsletter more like a magazine containing a featured topic rather than a newspaper that contains multiple articles. It will be published quarterly with each edition highlighting a different aspect of our services. Each issue will consist of just four pages with the middle two opening up to form a poster which you can keep for your reference. In this first issue we will be introducing you to our new website. The next issue will feature our new Employment Options service which helps people find jobs. Each issue will also contain a calendar section as well as some updates from me.

Our website is still evolving, but will ultimately be the place with the most comprehensive and up-to-date information about PathWAYS. We are designing the website to contain several layers of information allowing you to initially receive some basic information about a topic while giving you the option of learning more if you so desire. In the future we hope to use our website as a way of connecting people and sharing information possibly through a message board or forums. Internally, our intranet will be available to our employees and will contain information they need to do their jobs such as policies and procedures, agency forms, announcements and trainings.

Our website, newsletter and staff intranet will compliment each other and give us multiple platforms to keep you informed. For example, the newsletter calendar will contain trainings and event highlights for the upcoming three months. The website calendar will contain up-to-date information about all upcoming events and trainings of interest to our stakeholders and the general public. The intranet calendar will include items such as trainings, conferences, staff meetings and employee events.

Please take a few minutes to read this newsletter and learn more about our website. Surf's up! So check us out at www.pathwaysnh.org. Also, do not hesitate to email me (mmills@pathwaysnh.org) or call me (603-504-1517) with your impressions and ideas about the newsletter and website. We have created these platforms to better communicate with you, and we look forward to expanding these tools to better meet your need for information. Please do not hesitate to add your perspective and help us shape these new communication tools.

> Did you hear the human people at PathWAYS have a new website, and they mentioned something about a newsletter!

What's a newsletter? Does it taste good?!
